Class: 8-F

Good morning to one and all present here. I Meet Soni from class 8-F would like to give a short summary on the Famous Five adventures (Christmas Eve) written by Enid Blyton. Characters are:- George, Anne, Timmy (a dog), George's Mother and Father, Tom [at last]. So, the story starts with the night before Christmas. Everyone were busy wrapping presents, dancing, playing games, enjoying and all.

Timmy became so excited that it began barking horribly. George's dad was a short-tempered guy. He became so furious and threw Timmy out of the house. Both George and Timmy became sad.

George decided to take Timmy inside the house when everyone fell asleep. By taking Timmy inside the house, George mistakenly kept the kitchen door left open.

Unfortunately, someone sneaked inside the house. Timmy saw him and again started barking. It was village's bad boy Tom. He hid behind the sofa. George's dad became angry and told George not to take Timmy inside the house. Timmy knew there was someone, but couldn't do anything.

Tom took all the presents and started

Subject: Johny Appleseed (— David Harrison)

Once, there was a person named Johny Appleseed. One day, he went to the house of Beth & Will. Beth & Will became stubborn that they would listen to his story. But, then Johny Appleseed said that he would tell them the story after helping their father and eating lunch. After doing this, he started telling the story: — When I was small, we were 10 mischievous brothers and sisters. When I completed school, I started earning for my family and after some years he packed up his luggage and left his hometown Massachusetts. On the way, he took a pack of apple seeds from cider mill. Then, he started finding land to sow the seeds. After finding the land and sowing seeds, he got inspiration and sowed more and more seeds. He sold some seeds for 6 and half cents to folks, traded some seeds for clothes and food and distributed some seeds to poor. His original name was Johny Chapman, but as he was fond of sowing seeds, he came to be known as Johny Appleseed.

Subject: "The Confidence Code for Girls"

Good Morning all Myself Mahiba Jadeja from 8-G And Today I am Going Talk about the Book "The Confidence Code for Girls", which is written by Katty Kay and Claire Shipman. This book is a Perfect book for Pre-teen and teen to build their confidence, which the authors define as the bridge between thought and action. Now if we think it Like a math formula then it is like Thoughts + Confidence = Action This book tells us that when some girls achieve their goals and some Luck behind just because of their inner doubt and self-confidence. Confidence doesn't come from being perfect, it comes from being brave enough to try it once. There is one point in the book "Think Less, Act more" which means that true confidence comes from taking action not by just thinking about it. When we think that let me wait until I am 100% sure about myself, but till that time you will miss it out. You know science have research that girls often get stuck in the cycle of overthinking which Kills their confidence. Now if we talk about failure then it is not the opposite of success it's a necessary part of the confidence journey. Every mistake is a chance to Learn and it try again and this book redefines it as a important part of the process. It teaches us that falling down is ok! but getting up back is what truly makes us strong. It tells us that don't comparing...

Good morning everyone myself Mahek Malik and today, I am going to tell you the summary of "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory" by the famous author Roald Dahl.

Charlie Bucket is a kind hearted boy who lives with his impoverished family in a tiny house. Life is tough for Charlie, especially because he loves chocolate but can rarely afford it. The story becomes truely magical when Willy Wonka, the owner of the world's most mysterious and marvelous chocolate factory, announces a contest. Five lucky children who find Golden Tickets hidden in Wonka chocolate bars will get the chance to tour his factory and receive a lifetime supply of chocolate. With a bit of luck, Charlie finds the last Golden Ticket and visits the factory along with four other children:- Alex, Lily, Max & Daisy. Inside, they discovered a world of sugar, wonder and incredible machines. As the adventure unfolds, each child faces the consequences of their greed or misbehavior, while Charlie's goodness earns him a special reward. In the end, Willy Wonka selects Charlie to inherit his entire chocolate factory, changing Charlie's life forever. Roald Dahl's story teaches the importance of kindness, honesty and family, all wrapped up in a magical and witty adventure. The book remains a beloved classic for everyone around the globe.

Name: Stuti Shah
Class: 7 - C

Good morning everyone! Myself Stuti Shah from grade 7th C. Today My topic is "the strongest character I have read about", and that character is Draupadi from the epic Mahabharata.

Draupadi is not just a queen or a wife of 5 pandavas. She is a symbol of dignity, strength and fearless voice in the world dominated by power and patriarchy. Her life is was full of hardships – from being won in a swayamvar to being humiliated in the royal court to facing exile – yet she never gave up her courage.

One of the most inspiring moment in her story was when she was dragged into the Kaurava's court and insulted in front of elders, warriors and kings. But Draupadi didn't cry in silence, she raised her voice. She questioned the elders. She demanded justice. At that moment, she was not just a women being wronged, she was a flame of resistance.

Even after such insult, she walked through years of exile with the pandavas keeping their spirit alive and stood like a piller beside them. What makes draupadi stand out is her ability to speak truth to power. her strength was not just physical, it was mental, emotional and moral. This kind of courage and commitment is rare and powerfull. She reminds us that even when the world is against you, you can still choose to be great through your actions and values.

Name: Yashvi M. Bhimani
Class: 7 - C
Topic: The most inspiring quote I found in the book
Book: "Ignited Minds" by Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam

I want to talk about a quote by A.P.J. Abdul Kalam that resonates deeply with me. It's from his book "Ignited Minds" and it is, "You have to dream before your dreams can come true." This powerful statement isn't just a poetic phrase; it's a roadmap for life.

This quote is about the very first, crucial step: imagination. Before a project can be built, before a scientist can make a discovery, before an athlete can win a championship, there is a dream. That dream is the blueprint, the vision for a better future. Dr. Kalam believed that a dream is not just a fleeting thought, but the initial spark that ignites your entire being. It's capital for any great enterprise; as he also said, without a dream, there is no clear destination, and without a destination, we cannot navigate the journey.ahead. Think of it: every invention, every innovation, every great achievement began as someone's dream. The dream is fuel, and hard work is the engine. This is what he meant by "If you want to shine like a sun, first burn like a sun". Let us let our imagination soar. But more importantly, let us commit to hard work. Dr. Kalam's words remind us that journey of a thousand miles truly begins with single step, and that step is to dare to dream.
Thank You.

BOOK TALK

Name: Mishree T. Bosamia
Class: 7 - C

Good morning everyone

Today I would like to change the ending of the book named "Charlotte's Web" written by Elwyn Brooks White.

Charlotte's Web tells the story of a pig named Wilbur and a spider named Charlotte. Wilbur is saved by a girl named Fern and later sent to the farm. He feels lonely and scared, until he meets a spider named Charlotte.

One day Wilbur learns that he may be killed in future. So Charlotte decides to keep him by writing 'some pig' or 'terrific' on her web. When people read these words they believe that Wilbur is special. Because of this Wilbur is saved.

In the real Ending Charlotte becomes weak after laying eggs and she dies. Wilbur is very sad but he protects her children and watches them grow.

If I could change the ending, I would not let Charlotte die.

In my ending Charlotte would recover and come back with Wilbur. And Wilbur would take care of her just like she did, and would continue their peaceful life together.

I would let Charlotte see how successful her plan became. People would visit Wilbur and talk how amazing he was and Wilbur would proudly tell everyone that Charlotte was the real hero.

I would also bring Fern back. She would meet Charlotte and would thank her for saving Wilbur's life. This would make the story feel complete.

I would change the ending this way because Charlotte deserved happiness too. She gave everything to save her friend and I believe she should have lived to see the results of her kindness.

But I also understand the author's ending. Charlotte's death teaches us that life is not always fair and real love sometime require self sacrifice.

So if I could change the ending I would make it happier

But the original reminds us how valuable Charlotte truly was

Thank you.

Name: Aksh M. Nathwani
Class: 7 - B

A very pleasant morning and Namaste. I Aksh Nathwani is over here to share my views on the topic "the book that every child in in middle school should read". My book is "Bhagwat Geeta". "Shreeji bava" told "Bhagwat Geeta" is a pathway to sucess.

If we bring a new "toy" or "gadget", there is a marvel which tells how to operate the thing: same way "Bhagwat Gita" is "manuel of life." In a competition every participant tries to win, But do you know what "Bhagwat Geeta" teaches me? It teaches me that just do your work, do your "karma", because the results are with me (Lord Krishna).

।। कर्मणीये वाधिकारस्ते माफलेषुकदाचनः
माँ कर्मफल हेर्तुभो मातेसंघोस्व कर्मणि ।।

When Draupadi was getting dribbed in Mahabharata, she screamed for help. But, no one helped her, afterwards when she asked help from "Shree Krishna", he protected her. After that, when Draupadi asked her when I was screaming for help at that time; why didn't you came to protect me?" Shree Krishna told, had you remembered me, had you thought about me? So, I am telling just leave your thoughts and go to "Shree Krishna", tell him to become my "Sarthi", my "charioteer" and he will surely help you !

।। मंगलानी भवन्तु ।।

How I practised :-

I practised a little bit, but I had confidence. I thought, there are only my family members and siblings sitting in front of me, and I am just practising one time indeed, my topic is "the book that every child in middle school should read." And now you would be knowing it's "Bhagwat Geeta". I just believed in "Shree Krishna" and did it. I got a "1st rank", and "certificate"!

Today, I share a book that every middle school student must read: Charlotte's Web by E.B. White. It's a sweet story about a pig named Wilbur and his wise spider friend Charlotte on a farm.

Wilbur is a small, scared pig who faces a big problem. The farmer wants to kill him for food. But Charlotte, a clever spider in the barn writes magic words in her web like "some pig" and "Radiant". These words make everyone love Wilbur and save his life. Charlotte teaches Wilbur about friendship, hard work and bravery.

This book fits middle school perfectly. We all feel small or scared sometimes: Like starting a new grade or facing tough/hard friends. Charlotte shows true friends help without asking for anything back. Wilbur learns to be kind and grateful, just like we should be with our friends during projects or sports.

The strongest lesson is from Charlotte's quote "You have been my friend, it in itself is a marvellous thing." This reminds us that friendship is the best treasure, stronger than money or looks. Great for us when bullies or exams make life hard.

Wilbur's curiosity is the best, he always tries to remember or learn something new and Charlotte always helps him. Always remember one thing one true friend equals a thousand fake friend it's your choice whether you choose a true friend or a fake friend. Thank you and have a nice day.

Name: Jeel N. Ghediya
Class: 7 - B
Sub : The Strongest character that I have read about.

Good morning my dear friends and respected teachers. My name is Jeel Ghediya from 7th B. Today I'm going to tell you about the strongest character that I have read about.

The strongest character that I have read about is Bhisma Pitamah from Mahabharata written by Ved Vyas. So, from your perspective what power does make a person powerful ? Does it is the power of overconfidence or wealth he has earned. None of these it's only the power of sacrifice he has done for us.

He was son of Mata Ganga and father King Shantanu. He was 8th child of Mother Ganga. He was a statesman and military commander of ancient Kuru kingdom.

Renowned for his wisdom, valor, skill in battle and unwavering principles, Bhisma served as the Supreme commander of the Kaurava forces during the first ten days of Kurukshetra war until his fall. His original name was Devarata, was a central figure in the Mahabharata known for his vow of lifelong celibacy, (Bhisma...pratigya) and his incredible skill as a warrior.

He was born with the blessing of iccha-mrityu, or the ability to choose the time of his death. He was student of Lord Parshuram, who taught him astra vidhya. Despite his adherence to his oath led him to fight on the side of Kauravas, even while acknowledging their wrongdoings. He later expressed regret for his role in the war and asked for forgiveness from Draupadi, as highlighted in Bhisma's advice to Yudhisthir's sections.

He mastered some powerful weapons like Brahmastra, Prasvapa Astra, Agneyastra, Varuna Astra. Bhisma did not die immediately after being shot thousands of arrows from Arjun on the 10th day of the Kurukshetra war, instead he lay on the bed of arrows. He waited until the auspicious period of Uttrayan. He was a formidable warrior, a loyal and dutiful son, and a wise person committed to his vow.

That's why I like the most strongest and consistent character Bhisma Pitamah from the epic and inspiring book Mahabharata.

Sub : The Strongest character that I have read about.

Hook

Imagine a power so great that saves and protects the entire universe — that power is Lord Vishnu.

Greetings

Good morning everyone,
Respected teachers and Dear friends.

Introduction

My name is Jenil, and I study in 7th A. Today, I am going to speak about one of the most sacred and inspiring books of Hinduism, the Vishnu Puran.

Speech

The Vishnu Puran is an ancient scripture that tells us how Lord Vishnu keeps balance in the world. This book is one of the eighteen mahapurans.

The great sage Ved Vyas wrote this holy book, who also wrote the mahabharat and divided the Vedas.

The Vishnu Puran has mainly six parts, each showing how Lord Vishnu takes different avatars to protect dharma or righteousness — like Ram Avatar, Krishna Avatar, Narsimha Avatar, and Vaman Avatar, each showing the victory of good over evil.

My Favourite Character

My favourite character from this book is Lord Vishnu. I like and love him because he is so kind, calm, honest, patient, loving, and always stands for what is right.

Vishnu Puran Importance Explaining

Vishnu Puran is not just a story book—it is a guide for life and it reminds us that no matter how hard things we get, truth and goodness will always win in the end.

Call To Action (CTA)

So, my dear friends, let us all try to follow Lord Vishnu's path—to be kind, calm, honest, patient, loving, and always stand for what is right.

If we do that, the world around us will surely become a better and more peaceful place.

Say Thank You

Thank you for listening and have a blessed day ahead!

Today I am going to talk about book that very middle school student should read. The book is called "WHO MOVED MY CHEESE", written by SPENCER JOHNSON.

At first the tittle may sound funny. You may wonder why would anyone write a book about cheese. But not really, the book is not about cheese. The cheese represents the thing we want in our life like success, happiness, good remarks, confidence, friendship and even approval from others.

The story is written like fable. It have four character the two mice named sniff and scurry. And two tiny humans named Hem and Haw. They all living in a maze. And one the day cheese disappears. Each characters reactly differently.

But Hem and Haw the tiny humans panic. Hem refuses to change and keep complaining, "WHO MOVED MY CHEESE". Haw slowly learns that changes is a part of life. And keeps moving forward.

This story teaches us that some changes are very important and unavoidable. In school sometimes the teachers change, subject get harder, friendship shift. And life doesn't always go the way that we except,Instead of being scared or angry we should just adapt like Haw.

One my favourite lines from this book is :-
What would you do if you weren't afraid ?
This line encourage us overcome fear take new challenging and grow.
So, why middle school student should read this book?
Because it helps the learns :-
How we can change face confidently.
How we can stop overthinking
And we can take responsibility instead of blaming
How we can stay positive when life feels challenging
In simple words, "Who Moved my Cheese?" teaches us that if we want new opportunities we must ready to move forward and try again and again.
To conclude this book may just small, just like a cheese but the lesson is very big and meaningful. So, I strongly recommend to every middle schooler to read it.
Thank You

Name: Shiv J. Joshi
Class: 7 - A
Topic: The strongest character I have read about
Name: SHERLOCK HOLMES

His strength comes from something far more impressive. The legendary detective created by: - Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Hello respected teachers & my dear friends, Myself Shiv Joshi from 7th-A. Today, I am going to deliver a speech on: The strongest character I have read about. His name is: - Sherlock Holmes.

Sherlock Holmes is not strong because of muscles or physical power. His strength comes from something far more impressive: his Mind. He has an extraordinary ability to observe small details, think logically, and connect the clues that others usually miss.

While the world sees confusion and chaos, Holmes sees patterns and possibilities. His intelligence is...Not just a talent, but it is a result of discipline and constant learning. Another reason Sherlock Holmes is such a powerful character, is his calmness under pressure.

Some of his masterpiece are:-

1. The sign of four
2. A study in scarlet
3. The Final Problem
4. The hound of Baskervillies

whether he is chasing criminals, solving impossible mysteries or facing obstacles. He stays focused and confident. He never allows fear or panic to control him. This reminds me that the true strength often means staying steady even when the situation is difficult. Even though he may seem cold at some times, he always uses his abilities to protect innocent people.

His friendship with Dr Watson shows a diffrent kind of strength, loyalty & trust. What makes Sherlock Holmes truly inspiring is that he teaches us that anyone can be strong by training their mind. His stories encourage us to observe things more carefully, question deeply & believe that every problem has a solution. His strenght not about force, but about intellegence, intergrity & resilience. He says that the sharpest weapon we have is our mind. Truly, Sherlock Holmes is the best, strongest and the most curious character I have read about.

Thank You.

Good morning everybody! Respected teachers and my dear friends. My name is Jadeja Vishwaraj from 7th-A. My topic is the strongest character in my favorite book. My book's name is Harry Potter. Do you know why Harry Potter is the strongest character in the series? Don't think. The reason will be provided.

At that time many witches and wizards are there, but two were the most powerful: first was Albus Dumbledore and second was Lord Voldemort. At that time, to become the strongest character was very hard, but Harry had done it. There were many reasons why Harry was the strongest character, but four were main.

1st "Power of Love and Sacrifice":- Yes, after Harry's birth, Voldemort was trying to kill the whole Potter family because they were coming between his plans. The plan of Voldemort was to achieve immortality and to become the king of the whole world and kill all muggles. Muggle means a person without magic. After killing Harry's father, he was trying to kill Harry, but his mother had sacrificed her life and produced a shield around Harry. So, Voldemort could not kill him. Voldemort was very powerful; he tried every spell and magic, but he only put a scar on Harry's head.

2nd Harry Potter is the strongest character because he is kind and loyal to his friend and helps at any time and any place and he regrets that Voldemort that he has killed his mother and father therefore, his goal was to kill Voldemort and take a revenge.

3rd brave yes, harry potter. He was very brave. You know the Hermione Granger? He was powerful and topper of hogwarts. At that time all wizards and witches were not allowed to speak a name of Voldemort but, harry was taking his name without fear. If you have had read all the parts you might notice that Hermione gives up to defeat Voldemort, but harry tells what happens that is big and power. I will try and I will give my best This is the reasons that harry was the strongest character in the series.

Through all the reasons it is personally thought that Harry Potter is the strongest character in the whole series.

Have you ever wondered how someone could come into the lives of thousands of women and change them forever? Namaste gurujano, Myself Aahna. The book which I recently read was 3 Thousand Stitches by Sudha Murthy. I read one chapter which named 'Three thousand stitches' itself. This chapter is about the dasis who are exploited. All the dasis who are part of this slavery have different reasons to do this work which they really don't like.

This chapter talks about how Sudha Murthy came in their lives and helped them to relocate with the society from century old tradition of devdasi system. Initially she thought she would bring out atleast 10 people from this slavery but in the course of 17 years she actually relocated almost 3000 women from this misery.

This story teaches us courage and struggle which Sudha Murthy and his colleague faced. This story changed my perspective about the society and made me think differently about the society. This story also teaches us that when we are living happily in our comfort zone, there are some people in our surrounding who needs little help or little guidance to bring out from their society. Sudha Murthy was a professor and a well known celebrity but they faced many challenges. They doesn't bent down and bought a desired result.

Now I want to leave you with three teachings that I learnt from the book:

1. You are braver than you think - Don't let your fear hold you back from pursuing your dreams.
2. You are stronger than you seem - You've overcome challenges before and you can do it again.
3. You are smarter than you think - Trust the process and have confidence in yourself and in your abilities.

At the end I want to share one saying said by Jim Kwik which is -
Our life is like an egg
If an egg is broken by an outside force, life ends.
But, if it is broken from inside force, life begins.
— So remember guys great things always happens began from inside.

Good Morning everyone. Myself Kumbhani Heer from 8th A. Today I want to talk about a book that has changed the way that I think about myself and my abilities. The book is Limitless by Jim Kwik. The book is all about breaking the limits that we set for ourselves and unlocking our full potential.

To break the limits that you thought in your mind is known as limitless.

So, question arises, How do we do it? It's all about mindset, motivation and method. We need to change the way we think about ourselves and our abilities. We need to motivate ourselves to take actions and we need a method to achieve our goals.

The power of our brain is limitless. We're capable of so much more than we think but the problem is, we only use a small fraction of our brain's capacity. Imagine what we could achieve tiny bit more of our potential!

To unlock our full potential, we need to focus. No distractions, No excuses. We need to be clear about what we want and we need to go for it.

For motivation put your goal clear and straight forward. Remind yourself why you're doing somethings and let that drive you.

BOOK TALK

Name: Vishwa Chandarana
Class: 8 - A
Sub : BHAGVAD GITA

Good morning my dear friends and respected teachers, myself Vishwa and today I am going to talk about a book whose message really matters in today's world. I am talking about our most religious text—BHAGVAD GITA. This book is a dialogue between the warrior Arjuna and his charioteer Krishna, on the battlefield of Kurukshetra. Arjuna was distraught about fighting his relatives, so Krishna guides him through a spiritual conversation that covers concepts like duty, the nature of soul, selfless action, and devotion.

This book is a 700-verse Hindu scripture and is a part of the epic Mahabharat. Out of these 700 verses, 574 verses were spoken by Lord Krishna, 84 by Arjuna, 41 by Sanjaya and 1 opening verse by Dhritarashtra. Of course, I won't be able to summarise a whole book in a few minutes but I would like to tell a few lessons Bhagvad Gita teaches us.

Everything in life is temporary.
The body is temporary and the soul is permanent.
Pain is a part of life.
Every end is a new beginning.
Change is the law of the universe.
Also there are some rules which Bhagvad Gita teaches us:

Rule 1: Control your anger.
Rule 2: Always think positive.
Rule 3: Control your mind.
Rule 4: Keep doing work, don't worry about the result.
Rule 5: Recognize yourself.

Also Bhagvad Gita teaches us that a meaningful life is achieved through selfless duty, without focusing on your results. It also teaches us that karma comes back; what you do today happens with you tomorrow. Developing inner strength, maintaining a balanced state of mind through detachment and devotion, ultimately leading to inner peace and a connection with the divine is the main thing Bhagvad Gita teaches us. This book really matters in today's world. Summarising this book in a few minutes is not possible but I really tried hard to do so. Thank you all for listening to my thoughts patiently.

"It is true that those we meet can change us, sometimes so profoundly we are not the same afterwards, even unto our names." A Great thought by the mind of Yann Martel. Do you know which book I'm talking about? It's Its life of Pie.

Good morning everyone, myself Diksha Kushwaha. I have chosen the topic of 'the most unexpected twist that I have read in a book' for these Book Talk Competition.

The book begins as a survival adventure. Pi Patel, a boy from India, is standed on a lifeboat after a shipwreck. His only compagnon was a Bengal tiger named, Richard Parker. The story follows his incredible journey of courage, faith and intelligence as he survived more than 200 days at a sea.

What inspired me most was Pi's reflection of fear. He says, "I must say a word about fear. It is life's only true opponent. Only fear can defeat life." This thought motivated me to see that survival is not just about food or strength it is about overcoming fear with courage and hope.

But the real shock comes at the end,when Pi reveals two versions of his life. One with animals and one with humans. In the second version of his life, the tiger may symbolize the human cruelty and violence. The author leaves it to us, the readers, to choose which story we believe.

This twist made me realize that truth is not always simple.

As Pi says, "To choose doubt as a philosophy of life, is akin to immobility as a means of transformation."

His words taught me that sometimes faith and imagination helps us survive as much as facts do.

Life of Pi is more than a survival story—it is a book that challenges how we see the truth and that can shape how we see life itself. And the unexpected twist at the end taught me that stories can hold more than one meaning. That is why this book left me amazed and inspired.

THANK YOU...

A very pleasant morning to one and all present here. I, Darshi Shah, from grade 8A is here for a book talk on the 'most unexpected twist I read in a book' and the title of the book is 'The Mystery of the School on Fire'.

The 'Mystery of the School on Fire' is the first book in the SMS detective agency series by Ravi Subramanian, a thrilling mystery novel for young readers. The story is set in a charming hilltown of Solan and revolves around a group of nine-year-old students who form the 'Super Mystery Solvers' or the SMS gang. The gang involves the twins - Aditya and Akriti and their close friend Kabir.

The central mystery involves a fire that breaks out in the school, not just once but twice in the school lab, baffling the police and the local authorities. The gang decides to take the matters into their own hands to uncover who is behind the mysterious incidents and why they are happening.

Throughout the journey of discovering the culprit they overcome many challenges and they even doubt one of their school teachers and school peon, Rehamat Chacha. The school inspection is around the corner and the fire breaks out in the school. This leaves a serious threat to the principal Maria Leena. They even doubt the newly opened Solan International school. But the story takes a twist when they at last discover that the fire was caused by no one, but by the equipment kept near the window-sill in the lab. The lens kept on the table reflected the sunlight which burnt the papers kept close to them. This incident takes place during the school inspection but the officer is impressed by the students of the Sacred Heart Public School.

The Mystery of the School on Fire is a perfect gateway for students who love reading mystery stories. It offers engaging twists that combines the beauty of hilltown with the excitement of detective story. With its well-developed characters, surprising twists and excitement of detective story, it offers curiosity and builds a love for reading mysteries.

Thank You.

Good morning, respected teachers and my dear friends, Myself Tanisi Maniar and today I'm going to speak about a book whose message is very important in today's world - "Wonder". It is the story of a boy named Augie Pullman who looks different from outside, but he is just like any of us from the inside - he loves, he laughs and he wants good friends. Yet, when he joins school, many children judge him only by his face. They stare, bully, make comments and ignore the problems he is fighting with. After reading this book even I thought how hard life would be for people like Augie. In a world where bullying, teasing, and judging happen so easily, this message is like a light of hope. It also reminds us that even small acts of kindness — a smile, a friendly gesture, inviting someone to play can make someone feel included and loved. This book really changed the way of my thinking for people who struggle in making friends, studying, or anything else. Thank you.

Book : The Alchemist by Paulo Coelho

Good morning/afternoon. The book I'd like to share today is a modern classic that almost everyone has heard of, yet its simple message can change your life if you truly listen to it. That book is The Alchemist, a fable by the Brazilian author Paulo Coelho.

It's a story that seems deceptively simple on the surface. The novel follows Santiago, an Andalusian shepherd boy who is content with his life but is driven by a recurring dream that a great treasure awaits him at the Egyptian pyramids. He is faced with a Egyptian pyramids. He is faced with a choice: stay in his comfortable, predictable life or embark on a journey into the unknown to pursue his destiny, his "Personal Legend."

Santiago sells his sheep and begins a journey that takes him across the Strait of Gibraltar and into the Sahara Desert. Along the way, he encounters a cast of characters who teach him valuable lessons: a wise old king named Melchizedek, a crystal merchant, an Englishman searching for an alchemist, and eventually, the alchemist himself.

The core message of the book is profound and motivating: "When a profound and motivating: "When a person really desires something, all the universe conspires to help that person to realize his dream."

This simple philosophy is what motivated me to be better. Santiago faces countless setbacks—he is robbed, he works menial jobs, and he questions his path many times. Yet, the story constantly reminds us to pay attention to the omens and signs the world gives us and to persist with courage and faith.

The Alchemist isn't about the destination or the final treasure, but the journey itself and the wisdom gained destination or the final treasure, but the journey itself and the wisdom gained along the way. It teaches us that true love doesn't interfere with your dreams and that the pursuit of your purpose is life's greatest reward.

This book is a quick, magical read that will force you to reflect on your own path in life and ask yourself: what is my Personal Legend, and am I willing to pursue it? If you need a nudge to stop procrastinating and start chasing your dreams, this universally known story is the perfect inspiration.

Thank you.

Class: 8 - D

'Good morning' I want to talk about Atomic Habits by James Clear, a book that offers a simple powerful blueprint for change. The core concept is that success isn't about massive change, it's about tiny, incremental improvements. Clear argues that if you get just 1% better everyday for a year, you'll end up 37 times better by the end. This is the compounding power of small habits.

Philosophy: Systems over goals.

Clear tells us: "You don't rise to the level of your goals; you fall to the level of your systems." Most people focus on the outcomes—"I want to write a book". Clear says focus on the process: "I will write 600 words everyday". If your system is right, the results take care of themselves. This shift from goals to system is the first major takeaway.

The deepest level of change is changing your identity. Don't focus on what you want to achieve; focus on who you want to become. Every action you take is a 'vote' for the type of person you are. The goal isn't to read a book, the goal is to become a reader. The goal isn't to run a marathon, the goal is to become a runner. This is the ultimate motivator.

To make this practical, James Clear provides the four laws of behavior change—a simple framework to build good habits and break bad ones.

* Make it Obvious: Never miss a chance to start.
* Make it Satisfying: Habits stick when the reward is immediate. Use a "Habit Tracker" and don’t break the chain.
* Make it Attractive: Pair what you need to do with what you want to do.
* Make it Easy: This is the most important law. Reduce friction. Use the "two-minute rule"—practice anything new daily for two minutes.

Conclusion: Stop focusing on your goals and start mastering your system.

Hello! Good Morning to one and all present over here. In 'The Cherry Tree' by Ruskin Bond there was a small boy named Rakesh who planted a single cherry seed in his grandpa's garden in Himalayan region.

He was motivated by his grandpa's advice that nothing is lucky if you put it away rather than using it.

The sapling's survival is a testament to resilience. It faces several near death experiences such as:-

* a goat eats all it's leaves
* the grasscutter's scythe accidently splits it into two halves
* harsh winters threaten to wither it.

Despite these setbacks, Rakesh remains devoted watching the tree as it grows.

Years later, the cherry tree grows into pale pink blossoms & bears it's first cherries. Rakesh gets delighted and asks, "Is this what it feels to be god?"

The story beautifully potraits the rewards of patience and the deep love between humans and nature.

A very warm good morning to everyone present here! I'm Dipanshi Makadia from 7th Iris, (A) MSA. Today I stand before you to tell a short story summary about a young boy named Rakesh, a small seed and the quite miracle of the nature.

In the Himalayan foothills, a six-year-old Rakesh eats a bunch of cherris and Is left with one last seed. His grandfather, a retired forest ranger tells him that 'nothing is lucky If you put it away'. So, Rakesh plants it in a quite corner. One morning he saw a small twig poking through the soil. To protect it he circles it with pebbles and watches it grow inch by inch.

But nature is a tough teacher. Over the next few years the plant faces every disaster: A goat eats its leaves, a woman accidently sinps it half. Yet, the tree has no intention of dying. After few years later, Rakesh was nine, the tree was four but as tall as Rakesh is.

Years later, the tree has transformed into a majestic tree. Rakesh steps under its shade, run his hand on its smooth trunks and thought, how something so gland came from just a small seed. He wishpers "Is this what it feels to be god?"

* The author of this story is Ruskin Bond who write these story to tell about the most profound lessons are found in the soil, the seasons and the nature, not in the textbooks.

Good morning respected teachers, judges and all my friends. I am Mitansh Patalia from 7th Daffodile. Today I am going to tell you a summary of a story named "The Cherry Tree" written by Ruskin Bond.

The story begins with Rakesh, a six-year-old boy living with his grandfather in Mussoorie. He ate some cherries and planted the last seed of the cherry in the garden. After a cold winter, the seed surprisingly sprouted into a tiny sapling.

Rakesh took good care of the tiny sapling. But that year monsoons came early so this helped the plant to grow quickly. When the plant was high enough a goat came and ate all the leaves of the plants. This made Rakesh sad since the plant remained only with the main stem and some branches.

When the tree got recovered again a new threat came; a woman cutting grass accidentally cut the tree into two. Grandfather seeing this scolded her but the damage couldn't be repaired. He thought the tree may die but as summer passed tree grew several new shoots. When Rakesh came back after visiting his parents he was shocked seeing the tree had grown up high. On his ninth birthday in February he and his grandfather were surprised seeing a pink pale blossom on the tree.

After few years the tree grew higher and produced few cherries. Rakesh tasted them. He sat on the grass beneath the tree. The tree was special to him because he and his grandfather planted and nurtured it themselves. He touched the smooth bark of the tree and whispered, "Is this what it feels to be God ?"

Moral of the Story:

Just like a seed given time and care can survive toughest of winters, a dream given patience and efforts can also be achieved by overcoming the hurdles.

Good morning respected mentontor and my dear peers. Today I stand before you to talk about story 'The Cherry tree'. An inspirational story of a boy named Rakesh, written by the famous author Ruskin Bond.

Rakesh lived in the stony foothills of Himalaa. He planted a seed from the bunch of berries he purchased for 50 paise. The seed which he planted, slipped off his mind quickly.

After about a year the seed sprouted into a 4-inch tall twig. Rakesh surrounded it with pebbles for 'privacy'. Out of the corner of his eye the seed grew quickly that year.

It faced many hurdles in its way to growth like a goat ate all of its leaves at the drop of a hat, A woman accidentally cut it in half and the himalayan winters even threatened it to freeze. Despite all the setbacks, it didn't had the intention to die. By this time, Rakesh grew taller even. As the seasons passed, their relation grew stronger. The Cherry tree also survived the weight of snow. Eventually the tree blossomed with delicate pink flowers and it produces its first cherry. Though the fruit was small and tart, looking at the tree Rakesh nurtured from a single seed. He was filled with wonder and divinity.

Moral - Keep trying, stay paitent, hard work will eventually grow into sweet fruits.

Hello! The cherry tree is a beautiful and heartfelt story of a little boy who nurtures the cherry tree with great patience and care. The boy Rakesh lived in Mussoorie with his grandfather.

One day, on his way to home from school, he bought bunch of cherries. By the time when he reached home only three cherries were left. He gave one cherry to his grandfather and probably ate other two cherries.

After eating the cherries a question emerged in Rakesh's heart, and he asked his grandfather, "Are cherry seed lucky?" His grandfather smiled and calmly answered, "If you put something is use rather than throwing it then it is always lucky."

So, he thought of planting it in the corner of garden. Soon enough he planted the cherry seed. Even after watering it and taking care of it but it does not grow a bit. So he stopped looking at it

Suddenly when he was roaming in the garden. he notices that cherry seed had turned into a healthy plant. But soon it was eaten by goat, also a woman cut its half of stem.

Although it was difficult for the plant to survive but it survives because it does not have intention of dying at all.

Soon enough the cherry blossomed beautiful flowers, and small cherries this way rakesh efforts and patience were paid off.

Moral :- The fruit of patience comes late or early but its always sweet.

Good Morning my respected teachers and my dear friends! My name is Jiya Chauhan from 7th B (Zinnia). Today I am going to tell you the summary of the story named 'The Cherry Tree'.

* There was a boy named Rakesh he was living with his grandfather in Mussorie.
* One day six-year old Rakesh buys cherry in the mussorie bazar. His grandfather was a retired forest ranger, tells him that seeds are only "lucky" if they are put to use. So, Rakesh plants the last seed in a corner of the garden.
* After puting the seed in the plant Rakesh went to play with his friends. After playing with his friends he initially forgets that he had planted a seed in the plant. The young sapling faces several near-fatal changes like it is eaten by a goat, cutted half by a lady, and damaged by harsh monsoon and winter snow.
* Despite these setbacks, the tree shows an incredible "will to live", constantly sending out new shoots and growing taller each year alongside Rakesh.
* By the time Rakesh is nine, the tree has grown taller than him. It finally produces its first pale pink blossoms and then fruit - small, sour cherris that the birds enjoy.
* The story ends with Rakesh and his grandfather sitting under the fully grown tree.

Moral :- Patience, and nurturing lead to great rewards.

In this story there is Rakesh which is six. One day when Rakesh was six, he walked from the Mussoorie bazaar eating cherries. There were a little sweet, a little sour, small, bright red cherries which had come all the way from the Kashmir valley.

Here in the Himalayan foothills where Rakesh lived, there were not many fruits. The soil was stony and dry cold wind stunted the growth of most plants.

Rakesh lived with his grandfather on the outskirts of Mussoorie, just where the forest began.

Grandfather was a retired ranger. He had a little cottage outside the town.

Rakesh bought cherries on his way home from school and by the time he reached home, three cherries were left.

"Have a cherry, Grandfather," he said, as soon as he saw Grandfather in the garden.

Grandfather took one cherry and Rakesh ate other two. He kept seed in his mouth for a time, rolling it round and round then he placed the seed on the palm of his hand and studied it.

"Are cherry seeds lucky ?" asked Rakesh.

Nothing is lucky, you must put it into some use if you put it away. If you want luck.

What can I do with a seed ?

"Plant it."

Rakesh found a small spade and began to dig up a flower bed.

The moral of the story is Rakesh and the tree have a kind and nurturing relationship.

Thank you.

There was a family who wanted a puppy that would be a fierce guard, so they bought a puppy and named him after the terrifying warrior Attila. They thought he would be a protective guard when he grows up, but in reality, when Attila grew up, he became gentle and friendly - even with strangers. The mother of the house did not like his friendly nature, but the younger son was happy with him.

One night, a thief named Ranga broke in and stole some jewelry. Rather than barking, Attila enjoyed his company and followed him. Everyone in the house tried to find him but failed. After a few days, the elder son of the house saw Attila on the streets and shouted, "Attila!" Ranga started running very fast. Because Attila wanted to stay with his friend Ranga, he overtook him and blocked his way. Ranga stumbled over him and rolled on the ground. All the jewelry flew from his hands. The elder son recognized the jewelry and sat on him at that time police also appeared and caught the thief so at the end of the day Attila was an ACCIDENTAL HERO.

"Attila" is a humorous story by the acclaimed Indian author R.K. Narayan. A family, concerned about a string of local burglaries, purchases a puppy with the hope of training a fierce guard dog. They name him Attila, after the formidable 5th-century Scourge of God, expecting him to live up to the name's terrifying legacy. However, Attila grows into a "pet dog with a very timid and generous nature". Instead of guarding the house, he shows an overwhelming love for humanity, greeting everyone - from postmen to beggars - with a wagging tail rather than a bark. The mother of the house becomes his harshest critic, viewing him as a "useless" expense while the youngest son remains his sole defender. One night, a thief named Ranga breaks into the house and steals the family's jewellery. Instead of attacking, Attila is so delighted to have a midnight companion that he follows Ranga out of the house and back to his hideout. Ranga finds the dog's constant, silent presence annoying, but he cannot shake him off. A week later, the family's eldest son accidentally spots Attila on the street with Ranga. When the son calls out, Ranga panics and runs, and Attila - assuming it is a game - chases him. This causes Ranga to trip, spilling the stolen jewellery. The family misinterprets this sheer luck as a brilliant display of detective work. They believe Attila had been "tracking" the thief all along to lead them to the stolen goods. Attila, who actually betrayed his family for the sake of friendship with a stranger, is honoured as a "cunning detective" and a hero.

The story was consisting of character named James Henry Trotter who was living with his mother & father & was living on the shores of United Kingdom. One day James & his family were walking on the streets of London & one escaped rhinoceros from the London zoo ate the parents of James. After that incident James was sent to his aunt's house. Their aunt's name was 'Spiker' & 'Sponge'. They treated James horribly & called him "a little nasty beast". One day James was as usual sent to work to cut down the wood logs for cooking stove. He while working he was thinking what his old friend would be doing. He asked his aunts for a picnic of one day but both the aunts denied & made a fearsome face. James was feeling fearful & hid behind the bushes. There he found an old man. The old man had a bag of old green crystals. He told to James "These are mysterious green crystals which will help you overcome your bad life.” James took the bag & rushed to the house but accidentally fell. The green crystals were spilled & buried in the ground. The next second a peach started to grow & every second he it grew double. It was as big as a house. James dig through it & he found some life sized insects like old green caterpillar, a turtle etc. The caterpillar broke the peach from the tree & the peach rolled down in the sea with James & the insects. They faced many problems but James encouraged everyone to overcome these situation. The peach rolled down to empire state building of New York. It then became a tourist spot.

* He was living with his grandfather in Mussoorie. His grandfather was retired forest ranger.
* One day, he was eating cherries in Mussoorie bazaar, which came from the Kashmir valley.
* He took some cherries for his grandfather and its price was fifty paisa for the bunch.
* When he reached at home he gave a cherry to his grandfather.
* And, Rakesh also ate a cherry and he ate the cherry until it's all the tang gone.
* He planted that seed at the corner of the garden where the earth was soft.
* After 1 year, Rakesh called his grandfather and told to see the cherry which was grown 4 inches high.
* After some days, the tree grew 2 feet high but a goat entered in the garden and ate all the leaves of the cherry tree.
* Grandfather said ‘Never mind’ when he saw Rakesh was upset.
* After 1 season, a women cutted the cherry tree into 2 parts.
* But then also cherry tree hadn’t die and started growing after some time.
* 1 morning grandfather saw 1 pale pink cherry grown on the end of a branch and he called Rakesh to see it.
* After some months, many cherries were grown and rakesh tasted it.
* He complained to his grandfather that it is very sour.
* Grandfather said ‘They’ll be better next time’.
* They both love to sat under the cherry tree.

Book - The Cherry Tree

The poem talks about nature; thus it falls under the category of nature poetry. The tone is that of optimism—the poet focuses on the growing aspect of nature; how the cherry plant struggles to survive. It is realistic in nature as it describes the everyday struggle of a plant to mature into a blooming tree.

The poem is about the poet's pure joy over a cherry seed, which he plants with the intention of having a tree of his own. It takes eight years for the plant to grow into a blossoming tree. He describes the seasons that the tree lives through to eventually grow & bloom.

The plant sees the light of the day in the month of May. Goats, scythe, & the harsh monsoon weather; all harm the plant but it strives to grow against all odds. In spring, new shoots grow & they reach upwards for more sunlight, air, & water. The poet patiently waits as time & the rains do their part to help the plant grow.

Meanwhile, the poet leaves for Kashmir to stay there for a while & returns in a poor state, but he still considers himself rich because now he has a full-grown cherry tree by his house. He notices a cherry hanging from one of its branches, like a jewel shining in the sun & feels ecstatic.

A year passes by & the poet watches the tree in full bloom. He talks about the pink flowers, which are fragile & seem like they would quickly fall at the slightest breeze. One day, the poet lies on the grass & describes nature in full swing — the sky, finches, bees, crickets, & the blooming cherry tree.

Book - The Cherry Tree

Good afternoon to one and all present over here. Today I will tell the story 'The Cherry Tree' written by Ruskin Bond from the book Communicate with Cambridge.

The story begins like this -> Once there was a small boy named Rakesh who was six years old. He lived with his grandfather in the Himalayan foothills in Mussoorie.

Rakesh loved eating cherries but the place where he lived had not many fruit trees. One day Rakesh bought cherries costing 50 P. from the Mussoorie bazaar.

After reaching home he offered his grandfather one cherry and ate the rest of the cherries. He kept the seed of the last cherry in his mouth until it was tasteless. His grandfather suggested him to plant it at the corner of the garden where the soil was soft.

Days went on and one day Rakesh saw that the cherry seed had grown about four inches high. He called his grandfather to see it. They both were very happy to see the cherry tree. Rakesh took care of the tree very delightly.

When cherry tree was about two feet high, a goat entered the garden and ate all the leaves of the tree. Towards the end of the season a woman came and cut the tree into two parts. However the tree was strong and it started growing again.

Soon, the small plant had grew into a big tree. It had its own leaves and blossoms and soon it started bearing its own cherries which were little sour.

Rakesh and his grandfather loved to sit under the shade of the cherry tree. The tree was the symbol of Rakesh's own growth.

Moral :- Fulfil your responsibilities and you will surely get rewarded for your efforts at the end.

Good Afternoon Everyone! to one and all present here. In this story "The Cherry Tree" is written by Ruskin bond from the book Communicate by Cambrigde.

Six years old Rakesh living with his Grandfather in Mussoorie. Eats some cherries and it is left with one seed. His grandfather suggests that, If he want to be a seed of lucky. He must put it to use by plant it.

Rakesh plants the seed in the corner of the garden. The sapling faces numerous life-threatening challenges, and it is also hidden by a tall and wide grasses. The leaves of this is eaten by a goat and it is accidentally cut half by a women using scythe. It is also survives as 'monsoon blight' and it shrivels its stem.

Despite the setbacks, the tree shows incredible resilience and continuous to grow. By the time, rakesh was nine and tree grown taller then him. One spring, the first pink blossom appers, which rakesh and his grandfather view as a miracle.

After eight years, the tree grown taller and the cherry is appears Rakesh eat the cherry and it is very sour, Although the first fruit is sour, the birds and bees loves the tree's nectar.

The story ends with Rakesh and his Grandfather resting under the mature tree and realizing that the tree is special because they planted it itself. Rakesh feels deep sense of pride and wonder.

Moral :- Patience and care gives you good things.
